MS. ANN TEAFF - HEAD OF SCHOOL

STUDENT BODY - 621

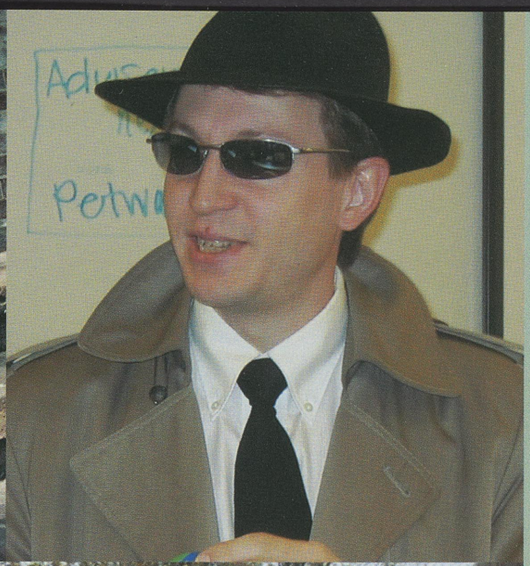

FACULTY AND STAFF - 145

It's FUN and GAMES at the 8th grade kickoff cookout with MBA on the Murphy Road field. Nina Banfield and Jenny Cook take a spin as Suzanne Howell, Bridget Bailey, Kelly Earthman, and Hannah Claybrook look on. Below, middle school students gather in a pep rally for the fall sports of volleyball, cross country, and golf. Lindsay Bae, Kate Richardson, Bennett Barr, Ellie Davis, Emily Boyd, Leah Shaw, Anna Kate Jernigan (front, 6th) and Autumn Maxwell-Pruitt, Lucy Cohn-Still, Jenny Cook, Caroline Aston, and Rohini Chakravarthy(8th) watch as the teams are introduced the week before the tournaments of each sport. Though calm for the moment, the club cheer competition ends the pep rally.

Getting Started

Lauren LeRoy, senior, sits on the side steps of Souby Hall. Any fall day during lunch you can find Lauren and the rest of the senior class spread out on Gambil Courtyard in front of the Senior House.

Dr. Huddleston poses as Inspector Gadget for Halloween, not a far strech for this Upper School physics detective. Below, his physics class shoots off bottle rockets. Whitney Hayden, Taylor Parrish, Kate Jacques, and Mamie Nichols prepare on standby as Ali Smith is quite excited and confident that her rocket launching skills will surpass that of any other physics student.

Are You GAME?

With an unexpected change of GAME plan, we welcomed 5 girls from New Orleans schools due to Hurricane Katrina. Katie Steck, Anne Rankin, Katie Luer, Lindsey Potter, and Erica Sirgo all joined us for the first semester, with Erica's family deciding to make Nashville their permanent home.

Emily Turner, junior, plays a quick game of Peek-a-Boo. Nice bling bling there, Emily.

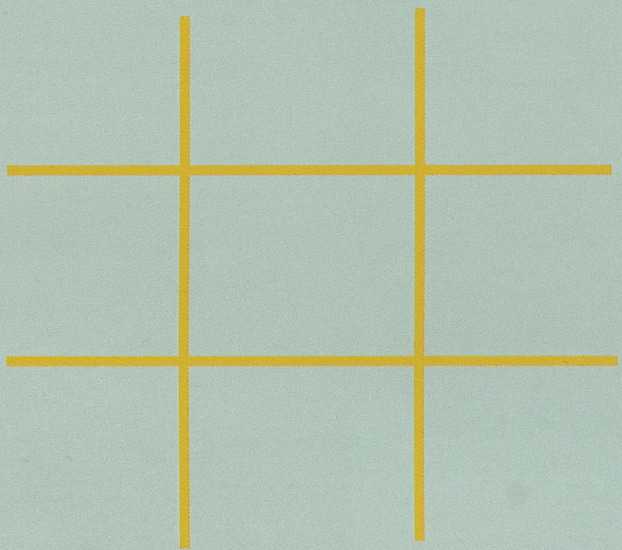

Welcome to your interactive yearbook! Use the dry erase marker to write and erase on these pages!

Dedications

Mrs. Dianne Wild has been devoted to our school for most of her life. She has been here in some capacity under every head of school in the school's history, whether as a student, teacher, parent, alumni developer, and now admissions director, she truly loves her alma mater. Mrs. Wild flies under the radar screen, but she certainly is a huge asset to the Harpeth Hall community. As the director of Admissions, she takes the lead in getting each student here and interacts with each student before they become a Honeybear. Mrs. Dianne Wild is this year's recipient of the 2005-2006 All School Faculty dedication.

Mrs. Betty Jane Barringer is dear in the hearts of all juniors and seniors. She has dedicated her career to helping so many students through very stressful, yet exciting time in their lives. One senior comments, "I would never be going to college had it not been for her. She was so calm about everything and helped me into my top choice!" She works to relieve the stress of the college process and her inspiring personality and talent as a thoughtful college counselor will be greatly missed next year. Mrs. Betty Jane Barringer, former Lady of the Hall, is this year's recipient of the 2005-2006 Upper School Faculty dedication.

Mrs. Jennifer Adams Since 1999, Mrs. Jennifer Adams has been an exceptional faculty member who has been a great addition to the school community. A wonderful wife, mother, mentor, and friend, Mrs. Adams is always there to help both Upper and Middle School students alike. She listens to all students with opens ears, an open mind, and an open heart. Her brilliantly led Life Skills classes leave the Middle School students feeling not only invigorated, but excited about what the future holds for them. One former student has said, "Every since I was a 6th grader, I have always felt comfortable around Mrs. Adams. Our daily chats during break with the other 'break girls' has allowed me to grow not only to see her as a friend, but as someone who truly cares for all students." It is with great pleasure that the Middle School dedicates this yearbook to Mrs. Jennifer Adams.

Check the facts

Was it in the Dining Hall with a laptop by Mrs. Malone, or was it in the seventh grade pod with a backpack by Mrs. Peck? Who gave that demerit? Can you solve the mystery? Seventh graders got a "Clue" by kicking off with a splashin' pool party on August 21st. With new girls coming from all over the midstate including Oak Hill, St. Paul, and Stokes, the class met new people and formed new friendships. The year included new laptops, mixers, studying for science, a day long retreat at Camp Laney, and Geroge Washington Day.

Caroline Maloy and Molly White enjoy a rush of blood to the head during a hand stand contest.

Jean Broadhurst, in an attempt to expand her vocabulary, starts her Wordly Wise homework during class. However, she is easily distracted by the shiney camera lens.

As part of the Colonial Day Celebration, Anna Carro, Grace Cummings, Alli Crew, and Alicia Rose marvel over their newly decorated pumpkins on the Travelers Rest field trip.

Even though the bell rang five minutes ago, letting Katie Zimmerman, Gisele Umuhire, and Mary Lynne Graham know it is time for 3rd period, these girls saunter along as if they have no where to be.

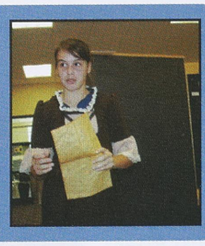

Meredith Lang, during her Colonial Day presentation, checks the competition out of the corner of her eyes.

Mattie Goldberg, raise your hand if you're SURE.

I was nervous at the beginning when all the new girls came, but now I feel like we are all a big family!" -anonymous

Embarrassed by her friends antics, Emily laughs nervously as Grace breaks it down.

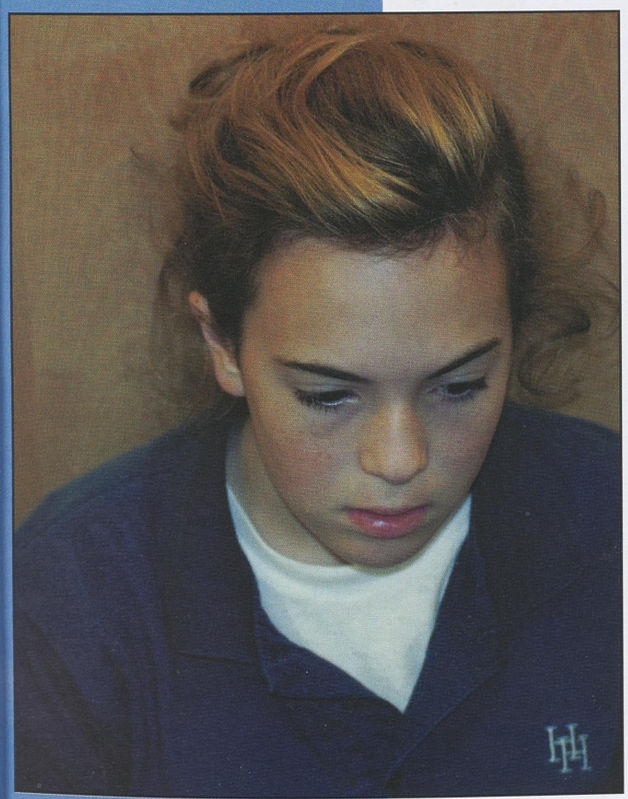

Ironically, Stephanie Seely enjoys a good laugh in the stockade, a Colonial torturing device.

Freshmen

Double the grade... double the trouble

Coming into high school with a rocky start, the girls in the Freshman class have finally become comfortable in the high school. Although the beginning of the year was tough, having the grade double AND moving from the middle school, where they were at the top, to the upper school, where they are the bottom of the food chain, the Freshman Class is definitely making their mark. By bonding together, forming new friendships, and making memories, they were ready and took on high school together. This year, the Freshman had two dances, a bonfire, and a hoopla. The Freshman retreat at to Camp Widgewagen also allowed the Freshman class bonding time with the new girls. With the new freedom and independence that the Freshman receive, their teaches expect more maturity, and the Freshman girls have stepped up to the plate.

Grade Rivalries

Worried about her coveted starting position on the varsity soccer team, Lauren Riegle, junior, terrorizes freshmen teammate Claire Bartholomew in the freshman hall, hoping to scare her off the team.

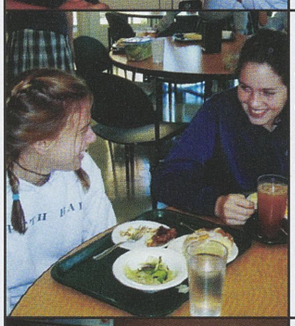

Coming straight from a tennis match, Madeleine Byrd is still a bit winded as she looks around the art building at the pieces.

Haley Joyce, eating a delicious Mexican quiche, stares blankly at Sarah Peacock while her "friend" laughs at the bits of food on her face.

Blythe Cate packs up her backpack, ready for school to be out for the weekend.

Jane Marie Brown's mom congratulates Jame Marie on her beautiful art work hanging in the Upper School Art Show.

Rachel McQuiddy excitedly looks out the window as her friend comes back from the cafeteria.

Freshmen Patricia Gormley, Callie Blackburn, and Kathleen Riley brush up on science terms by the Junior Lobby.

...Still underclassmen

The Class of 2008 reached new levels of independence and responsibility throughout the year. The most exciting part of their sophomore year has been "Getting our licenses!" says Frances Phipps. "Now it's like we're really a part of the upper school." They also had mixers, such as their techno-rave dance, and took a trip to six flags with MBA. Maggie Stephenson said, "Six Flags was incredible! We had an awesome time! My favorite ride was the Chang." But their year hasn't been all play. They worked hard selling pecans during their fundraiser to help finance the prom they will put on next year. The work load increased a lot from freshman year. With difficult courses like Algebra 2, Chemistry, and the extensive Poetry Project in the spring, the students have had to learn to manage their time more wisely. However, these harder classes have given the sophomores more opportunity to make friends in different grades since this is their first year to have classes with older students. Alex Tucker comments, "Hopefully Junior year will be just as challenging but yet worthwhile as our sophmore year."

Samantha Williams indulges herself with the latest issue of Hallmarks while sitting in the Sophomore hall.

Elizabeth Belk and Alison Geraghty study a leaf in Biology class and find it is more complicated than they had previously thought.

Carolyn Murdock and Grace Douglas laugh hysterically while enjoying the sunshine on the steps outside Wallace Lobby on a beautiful August day.

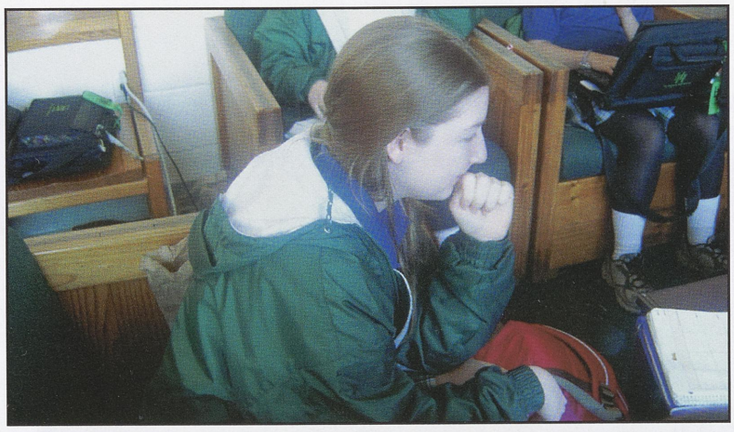

Dr. Huddleston shows off his sweet science experiment to Blake Stadler.

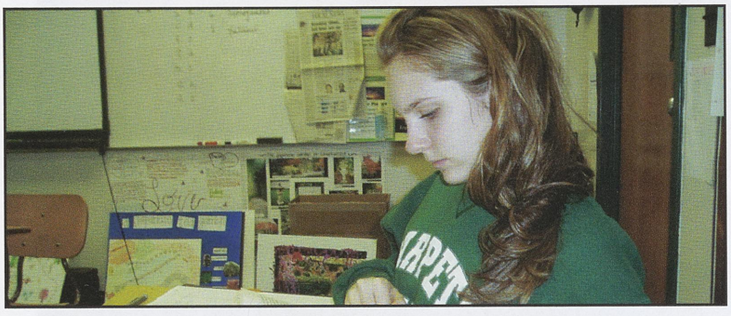

Amanda Dean is appalled as Emma Hunt celebrates when she completes the final level of Mario.

Catherine Ramsey and Emily Henry work on their Spanish Orals in preparation for the upcoming test on Chapter 4.

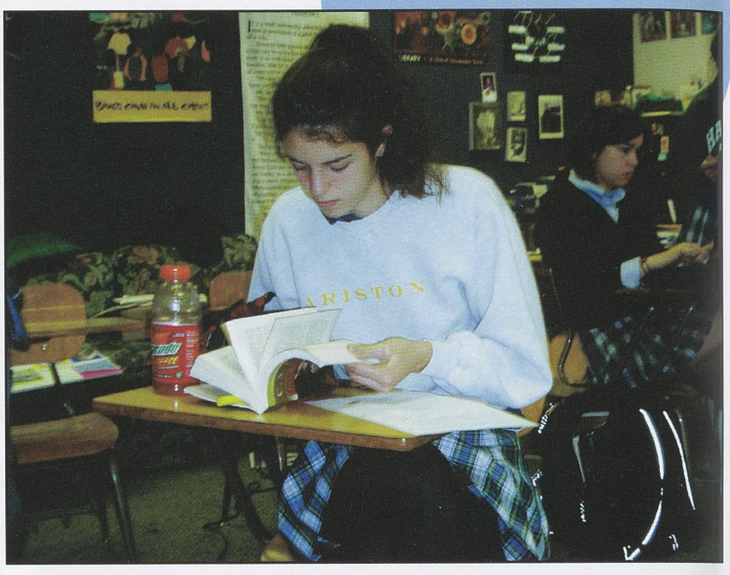

Lauren Zielske is working hard (or hardly working) in the Bear Lair during her free period.

Kate Zerfoss crams for one of Mrs. Grimes's English tests.

Allison Rappuhn quickly flips though Nectar In A Sieve, in search of a perfect quote for her paper.

Juniors

Anna Rose Heyman tries to look over her English notes before taking the Pride and Prejudice test.

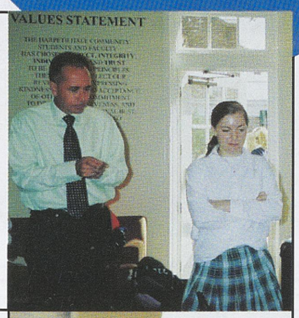

With junior year and becoming upperclassmen comes with a lot privileges, but also many responsibilities, including prom planning, college counseling, harder classes, and term papers - just to name a few. The juniors had to come together to pick a prom theme, and it took many stressful hours of planning and decision making to make it all work. The Bon Voyage theme looked beautiful in the end with classy and elegant decorations. Along with the stress came the pressure of beginning to think about colleges. In the spring, juniors began college counseling classes and met with the counselors. From hanging out in the junior lobby during free periods to working on prom and stressing over term papers together, the junior class has grown together and survived the year known to be the toughest of them all.

This year, Spirit of Service had a very successful year! With 100% participation, Harpeth Hall was able to touch the lives of many in need. This year, our community service focus was the Ronald McDonald House. Students helped this organization by making and serving dinner, baking cookies, and sponsoring casual days to raise money and supplies.

Awards were given out at the annual service regognition assembly to one girl from each grade for outstanding service. The club service award was given to the knitting club for their work on knitting scarvse and hats for the homeless. Elizabeth Allen won the teacher service award for all the time and dedication she puts into working with Hispanic Achieveres.

INTRAMURAL CLUBS

Before the TSSAA, girls sports revolved around intermural competition. We have always been on the cutting edge of girls athletics, so the competition quickly became intense. Intense enough that the athletes needed fresh competition, eventually against other school's teams. But our school did not want to let go of the four club traditions. ARISTONS, ANGKORS, ECCOWASINS, and TRIADS have remained a part of school life through club initiation, relay races, spirit week, MS field day, and song competition. This year the club presidents and vice president honors went to Jamie Gordon and Susan Barcus for Ariston, Elizabeth Bohannon and Julie French for Angkor, Lauren Caire and Claire Nusimer for Eccowasins, and Paige Watson and Melissa Neil for Triads. This year spirited Elizabeth Bohannon and Julie French led the Angkors to a win at song competition. For the second year in a row Middle School field day was a full day of activity, celebrations, and contests. The four Middle School club presidents instilled spirit in the girls and the event offered fun for all grades. The girls were all decked out in their finest club apparel, including hair dye, body paint, and ribbons. At the end of the day, worn out from all the festivities, the Angkors ran away with the victory.

Milestones

As school ends and the students dwindle off for vaccations to the beaches and lakes, the Milestones staff can still be found in their little workshop beneath the art studios. Racing against the clock, these gamers continue dealing out pages in their own form of overtime. Striving for survival, it's not just fun and games when deadlines cross their paths as in a game of Ms. Pacman. When this year's hand was dealt in the form of games as the theme, the staff ran away with the victory, adding details such as a spinner on the cover, interactive pages with games galore, and page numbers transformed into dice, dominos, and card faces. Coming back from the conference in Chicago, the staff prepared to hit this one out of the park. This year encountered a few set backs due to such a large increase in staff, but the hopes of a victory are great. Kate Steele put it best, "It's more work than I ever imagined, but the food, friends, and end product make it all worthwhile!" We hope you love this year's yearbook!

Aladdin, Jr.

The Disney classic Aladdin, Jr. came alive on the Harpeth Hall stage this spring. Filled with magic and excitement, the middle school students put on a fantastic performance complete with the magic carpet and even a genie. Energetic dance moves and vibrant colors made this play a success. With over fifty student participants, it was evident the girls worked extremely hard on their performance.

Footloose

Two Thumbs Up

There was obvious on-stage chemistry between Scott Schwartz and Stephanie Rothenberg, who played the two main characters, Ariel and Ren, in the show.

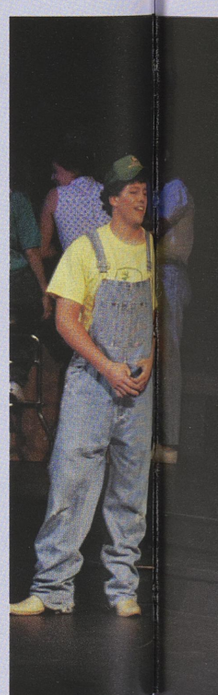

Jasmine Miller, Ellen Thomas and Ashley Hayden gossiped on stage right (or is that stage left?) as the plot thickened.

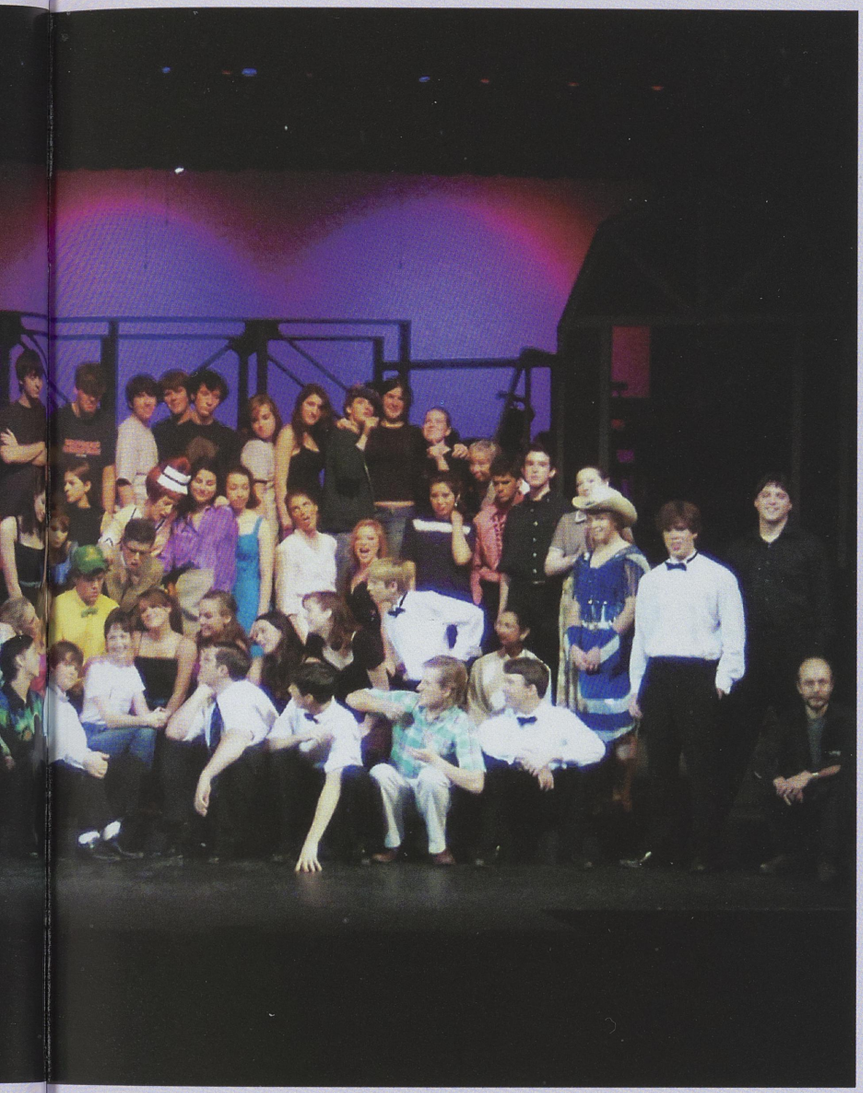

Our playmakers, along with the MBA Players, put on a fantastic show of FOOTLOOSE this fall. The cast worked tirelessly for weeks before the final production. Their hard work showed through their talented singers, energetic dancers and humorous characters. Directed by our own Janette Fox Klocko and choreographed by Stephanie Hamilton, the show consisted of 46 actors and 18 crew members. The crew worked hard behind the scenes on the sets, props, costumes and lights to make the entire show run smoothly. Stephanie Rothenberg, who played Ariel Moore, gave an outstanding preformance, along with the "six pack" of girls: Whitney Edwards, Kristin Wamp, Molly Campbell, Lindsay Turner, and Becca Hill. The cast put in lots of hours during tech week and often ended up staying at school until 10:30 PM! Although some of the girls fell a bit behind in their schoolwork, they all said it was worth it in the end and were sad when it was over.

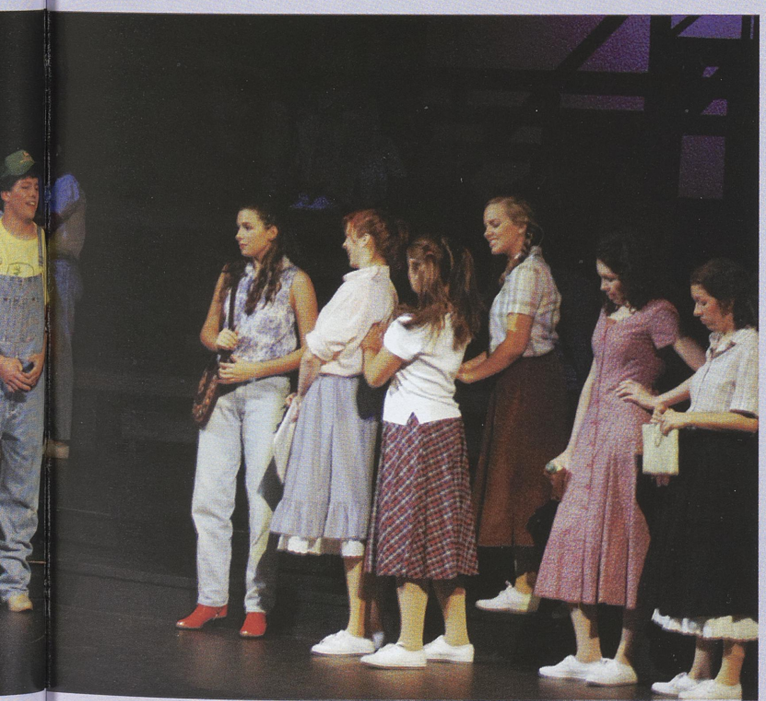

They might look like they are happy on the outside, but the Moore family has a lot of problems that they fix by the end of the play.

Far Right: Erin Brooks, Mary Julia Bressman, Caroline Hallemann and Maddie Teren lie down for girl talk.
Right: The "six pack" of girls listen intently to the wise advice given by Chase Altenburn.

TWELFTH NIGHT

Bravo! Brava!

Ellen Thomas acting as a priest prepares for the marriage that is about to take place. Stephanie Rothenberg disguised as a man, listens as the male character expresses his love for her character. Ginny Perkey entertains the audience by playing her violin.

The fall play Twelfth Night was an amazing production that took place this fall. Principle roles included Stephanie Rothenberg, Caroline Winsett, Grace Douglas, Jeff Eberle, Chase Cato, Tommy Corts and many others. Even Harpeth Hall's own Andrew Martelle, Ginny Perky and Channing Garber made appearances in the show to play the violin and other instruments. Twelfth Night was performed on November 2nd-4th and had a great turnout. Visiting director Denise Hicks did a wonderful job with the cast and DJ Ranta designed a knockout set. Twelfth Night was a hilarious comedy that kept everyone in the audience falling off their seats from laughter. Not only were the actors and actresses funny, but the techies also did a great job with the lighting and set design. In all, Twelfth Night was a huge success and everyone that went to see it loved it!

Caroline Winsett and Jeff Eberle stare into each others eyes as they serenede one another with their lovely voices.

The two lovers, Scott Schwartz and Stephanie Rothenberg, sing throughout the play to show affection.

Grace Douglas and others stare in ashtonishment at the joke that they have created about the butler.

Caroline Winsett tells her maid, Grace Douglas, about her love for one of the other characters.

The girls finally let loose and take time to pamper themselves with spa products.

Whitney Edwards as JS consoles Kalen McNamara (Seada) after she realizes she has lost her baby.

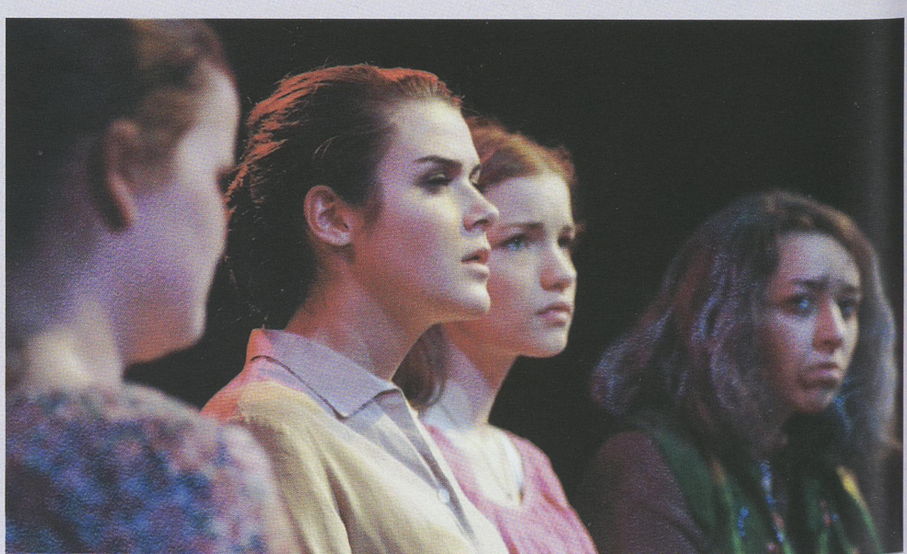

Becca Hill, as the funny Bosnian refugee Azra, has a chat with Mary Tek (Zlata) at group counseling.

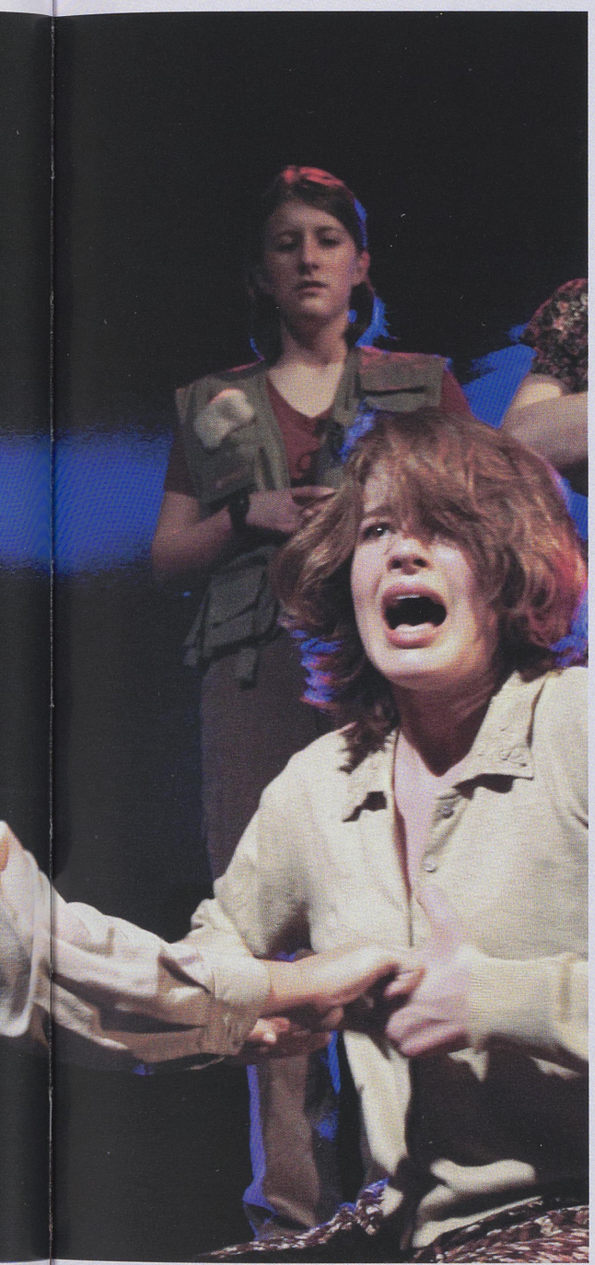

Caroline Winsett as Elena works tirelessly kneading her dough, the only thing from her past she has left to do.

The girls tell their stories of how they all ended up in a refugee camp.

Necessary Targets

Necessary Targets not only touched people's hearts, but left the audience with a sense of how fortunate we really are. Seven upper-school girls starred in this production about the hardships of refugees in Bosnia in the 90's. Although it was about a serious subject, there was not a shortage of light-hearted laughs. Whitney Edwards played JS, a wealthy therapist from New York City, who was accompanied by Melissa (Grace Douglas), an American journalist. While in a Bosnian refugee camp, they come across five women just like them who were suddenly ripped from their ordinary world. Through group therapy sessions and late night talks, JS learns about the horrific stories of these women's lives during the war. All of the refugees (Mary Tek, Caroline Winsett, Becca Hill, Willa Fitzgerald and Kalen McNamara) had very complicated, deep stories that they slowly shared with the audience. It was evident these girls worked tirelessly on their complicated characters and their hard work really paid off. Backed by a great crew, this show was truly inspiring.

DANCE CONCERT

Seniors Margaret Walker, Angeline Mariani, and Jillian Thompson gracefully sway back and forth to the music.

Allison Richter, Marie McCord, and Alice Cammack show boundless amounts of energy in the middle school company's dance.

Noni Hill, a middle schooler, strikes a pose on the ground.

Senior Monisha Chakravarthy shows her impeccable balance.

Melissa Kim and Blair Carter focus intently on their next move.

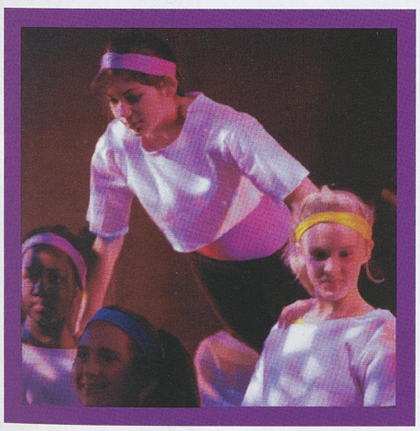

Senior Molly Campbell lights up the stage in her solo dance.

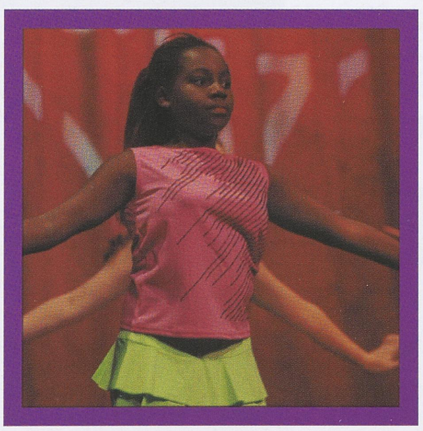

Junior Becca Hill entertains the audience as she taps across stage.

Meredith Woodard graces the audience with her smooth moves.

Middle Schoolers build a human pyramid on stage.

Under the leadership of twelve senior dancers, the middle and upper school girls worked tirelessly to put on two shows during the year. The theme "Footloose and Fancy Free" showed through all their movements. The types of dances included modern, jazz, ballet, tap and the newly added hip-hop dance. The crowd favorite was the hip-hop dance which was choreographed to a mixed collection of songs. It included girls from 7th to 12th grade. The combination of bright lights, loud music and talented dancers equaled an energetic dance concert.

Upper School and AP Art Shows

At the AP Art Show, people freely mingled around the students' work. Here a woman admires Maggie Diehl's artwork.

Beth Ward's creative duct tap plaid skirt sits on a stand for all to see during the AP Show.

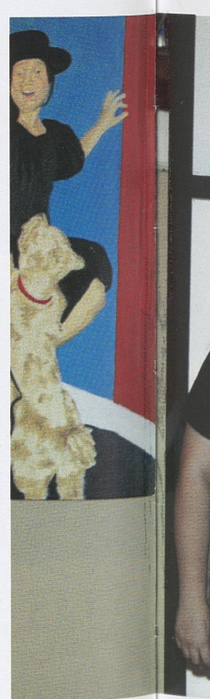

Kristin Wamp captivates the audience of the Upper School Art Show once again as she sings with Mr. Joe Croker.

For the AP Art seniors, this was their final chance to show off their work to their family and friends. The Marnie Sheridan Gallery was buzzing with positive critiques of the students' work. It was evident that the students spent countless hours perfecting their art. For AP students, their course ended with a chosen concentration for the show. Many students chose to depict their favorite books while others chose something they're passionate about like South Africa. A few nights later, the Patton Visual Arts Building was full of art lovers, but this time for a different crowd. This night was dedicated to all the art classes in the Upper School. The art ranged from clay sculptures to oil paintings to photographs. There was live entertainment that night and everyone seemed to come out inspired by the dedication and talent of our student artists.

Mary Lindsay Krebs shows off the resemblance between her mother and the portrait she painted of her mother.

At the AP Art Show, a woman, perhaps it's a mom, perhaps it's a regular at the Marnie Sheridan Gallery, critiques Argie Johnson's paintings.

Fall and Spring Music Concerts

The Music Concerts were split into separate performances this year: Fall and Spring as well as Middle School and Upper School. The Middle School Concert featured the fifth-sixth grade choir, band, and orchestra; the Harpeth Hall Singers (seventh-eighth grade chorus) and the seventh-eighth grade band and chorus. The Upper School Concert featured the Upper School Concert Choir, Chamber Choir and Orchestra. This concert was also the debut for the new collaborative group between the MBA singers and Harpeth Hall singers called "Lads and Plaid".

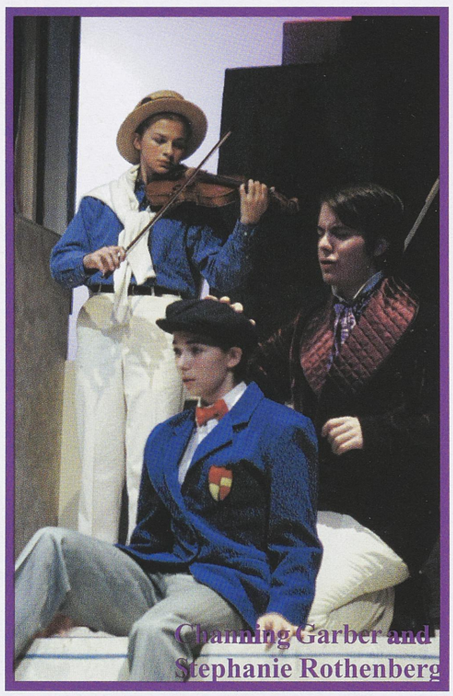

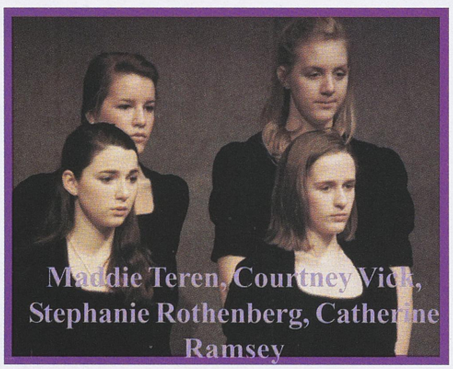

Claire Henry, Marybeth Meador, Elizabeth Floyd and Jasmine Miller sing in the Winter Concert.

Bowlers

Highlights

Although eating fries and hanging out with friends may seem like the ideal sport, the bowling team certainly worked hard for their success. Making it to the State Championships for the third consecutive year, the Bowling Bears had an impressive season. Thirteen dedicated bowlers came together under the leadership of coach Jennifer Cox, who led the team to a win-loss record of 4-5. In their closest match of the season, the Bears had a triumphant victory against rival Brentwood Academy, winning 14-30. Although they were ultimately unable to gain a title as State Champions, the Bowling Bears should certainly be proud of their accomplishments. They worked tirelessly, and in the words of senior Kathleen Ambrose, "The amount of fun we had is really the best aspect of the bowling team".

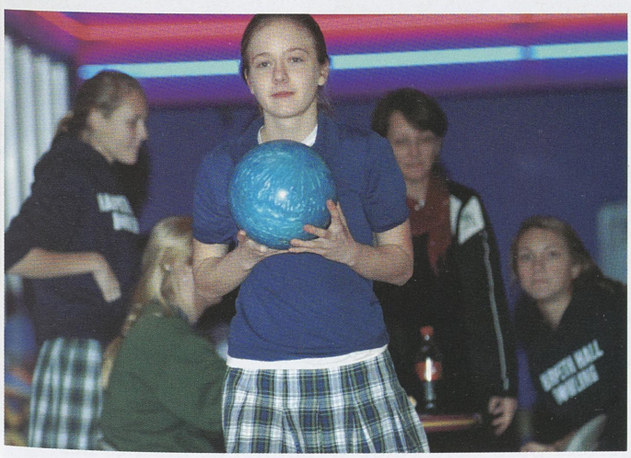

Allie Kirkpatrick is very focused on her game; Mary Olivia is pleased with her good technique! Lindsey Rollins winds up for a good score; Ali Berryman lunges forward and sends her ball rolling towards the pins! Taylor Fettrol looks worried because she may have had a gutter-ball. Lexi Zager watches nervously as her ball travels down the lane; Kathleen Ambrose makes sure her ball rolls right down the center.

No Opponent Spared

Bowling

Amy Dixon keeps her eye on the pins as she throws the ball down the lane. Addie Boston flashes a smile, hoping for a strike. Ali Berryman focuses on the pins before striking them down. With a determined look on her face, Clare Brooks prepares to hurl the ball during practice.

Highlights

Both the middle school and upper school golf teams had impressive seasons this year. Senior members Emily Stewart and Tracey Lustig led the upper school team to victory in many of their matches while still having fun. Senior Tracey Lustig commented that "although we were small team, we were able to get to know each other and work great together." Coach Leah Holland left mid-season to have her first child and Mrs. Choppin temporarily took over as coach. Coach Choppin led the middle school team to one of their most successful seasons yet, finishing first in the HVAC tournament An accomplishment for the midle school team this wear was winning over BA in the tournament. Mrs. Choppin said "I have seen great middle school golf, matched only by the girls' hard work this season." This was a season to be proud of.

Highlights

The season got off to a great great start with an opening match win against CPA. The team then went on to beat Ensworth in straight games. Not only were these girls strong athletes, but they also were strong supporters. Coach Wilson describes the girls enthusiasm as, "These girls were so supportive of each other, and they did it with style." Another highlight of the season was when 7th grader MaryLynne Graham served an entire game of aces during a scrimage. Other exciting moments include: Margot Henderson's digging up serve after serve against Page Middle School, and Lexi Mossman spiking the last ball in the final game against BGA. This team gave each girl an opprotunity to be the captin as they rotated captains every match. These girls also improved tremendiously throughout the season. The girls worked all season to perfect their overhand serves and their hard work was well rewarded. Coach Wilson describes this team as "girls who never gave up during a match and were always up for a challenge." The team came out with a strong ending, winning 2 out of 3 games against BGA.

The team strikes a pose; the team has a quick huddle; MaryLynn Graham serves an ace. Langley Clement and Caroline Allen wait for the ball to make it over the net, Suzanne Howell and Eleanor Hudson take a quick break. Lexi Mossman practices her serving. Neely Duffey watches the clock anxiously

Highlights

Wins- there were several; losses- there were a few; team spirit- that was a constant; potential,-that was endless. "This group was capable of whatever they set their mind to, " says Coach Ross. This they proved with impressive wins over Ensworth and BGA late in the season. Practices started well before the school year in early August. The team participated in 2 weekend tournaments, placing 2nd in the silver division at the annual BGA tourney. Here the girls plays 11 hours of volleyball and one trip to Sonic. Coach Ross says"If you measure the success of this team by wins and losses then we were pretty good, but, if you measure this team by their talent, hard work, and teamwork we were great!" When asked to sum up the team in one word Katie Zimmerman simple stated, "Amazing."

Senior Anne Laurence Chenery sums up the volleyball season best stating "I felt that we really pulled together as a team more so this year than ever. We were ready to be the seniors, the leading class. This year was special because everyone got along so well so that when we won state it wasn't just a varsity win but a team win. Winning state, the girls on the team, and Rock Island were some of the best things about this season. Playing Father Ryan in pool play at state was definitely the team's best game. That was the game we really pulled together to play our best. From then on out we were more focused that I've ever seen us. Father Ryan is our toughest competitor mentally, but GPS or German Town are the toughest physically. One of my favorite memories from the season was at regionals when Sarah Norton refused to wash her hands after she went to the bathroom even when we blocked the door."

Highlights

The middle-school cross-country team recently completed a wonderful season. The "Long Green Line" rolled through the regular season with a 15-1 record, with the only blemish coming in the form of a one-point loss to Ensworth in the last meet of the year. It was difficult to feel disappointed, however, as this year's team re-wrote the record-book from top to bottom. Alex Bryant moved to number two all-time with a spectacular 9:00 clocking, with precocious sixth-grader Emily Boyd close behind in 9:11. The "Killer Bs" thus established themselves as the fastest duo in school history. Mary Daniel Smith, Madison Longmire, Caroline Aston, Alden Patterson, and Anna Spickard all broke that mark in the championship race while placing in the top twenty out of more than 200 runners. Finally, for the first time in history, every single girl on the team ran under thirteen minutes for the 1.5-mile course at Vaughn's Creek. All of the girls are to be congratulated for this amazing performance.

Varsity Cross Country

Highlights

With a team of almost 60 girls and a record number of seniors, this year's Cross Country Bears worked hard and had a blast. After winning the district meet by a high margin, seven runners went on to compete in the state meet, and Brenna Newport earned personal honors. Though they did not claim the state title, the team won all their dual meets and lost to only 7 of the 200 teams they ran against. According to Maddin McCord, "Camp in Rock Island was the best XC camp there has ever been!" The team really bonded over the season with events like Senior Workout Day and Tacky Week, when the underclassmen were forced to wear Depends over their shorts. Tough practices were made bearable by the team's incredible support system. Everyone had a great time this season, and, as Mrs. Russ warned, "Watch out, we will all be back next year!".

Highlights

The Middle School Soccer B-Team was able to come together and improve during each of their games. The girls became more confident in their playing, improved their kicking and defending skills, and became strong leaders. The team worked well together and they all put in a lot of effort but still enjoyed themselves on and off of the field. Kristen Oslin remarked that "Our team was like a group of people that acted like they had known the rest of the team for years. We were all best friends practically". While the team worked hard, off the field they enjoyed some fun memories, such as the cake being smashed into Eliza Taylor's face at the end of the season party. Eighth graders led the team and improved on their leadership skills while the younger girls listened.

Highlights

For many of the girls on the Middle School A Soccer Team, the highlight of the whole season was when when they beat Ensworth in double overtime after losing to them twice. "The Ensworth final game was the best because we won and it was so exciting because we went into double overtime and then had a shootout", said Laura Gideon. Even though the soccer team did lose to them two times before finally taking the victory, the girls also agree that Ensworth was their best opponent. Mary Smith and Katie Zimmerman both commented that another fun highlight of the season was when the girls danced around the locker room together. Another way the girls had fun this year was when they "listened to rap music to get pumped up for the game", said Emily Watson. As for the coaches, all of the players agree that they are great. When asked about her best memory of the coaches, Katie Zimmerman said, Coach Jackson and Coach Becker were always really fun to be around and always had a great attitude." Mary Smith also added that "Coach Jackson was always understanding and would never yell. When we won against Ensworth he was so excited and got a cooler dumped on him." Overall, the girls had a successful, fun year with great leadership from the 8th grade girls.

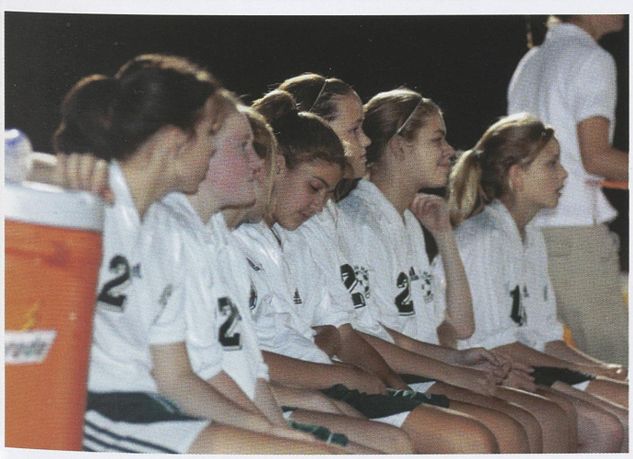

The girls huddle together before a game. Katherine Dresch runs for the goal. Coach Jackson gives the girls motivation from the sidelines. Emmy Weikert defends the goal. Mary Daniel Smith shoots and scores! Suzanne Gill does a victory dance. Katie Zimmerman steals the ball.

As with all fall sports, the soccer season begins weeks before school starts in August. This group of girls started at team camp where Ralph Lundy helped get everyone into shape. The seniors focused on making sure everyone was there for the team and especially tried to make sure that the freshmen felt included. When asked about the team, senior Emiy Hassell said, "The team was very supportive and determined. Everyone wanted to be there, to play and to cheer." Though their overall record was not what they would have hoped, one senior member put it best when she said, "You can't tell from our season, but we were actually really good--we just had problems scoring."

When asked to describe her team, Maddi D'Aquila stated "we laughed, we worked together, we had fun, we got along, but we were also very serious abou the game and we always played our best." Fifth grader Laura Lee Singer describes the team as "really good and athletic and has very good sportsmanship to the other players." Taylor Heinze sums up the season saying "by the end of the season I think we all realized how much we worked as a team. We grew stronger individually but we grew strong as a team also. We also improved in shooting, ball handling, and just having fun." With an overal recored of 10 wins and 3 losses, this is the most successful team in the last 7 years. New to the team, Coach Mary Siefker, stepped in and brought the program to a new level. One player states "I think Coach Siefker was an excellent coach in many ways. Because of her experiences in D-III basketball she used her own strengths to teach us. She also believed in us the whole way."

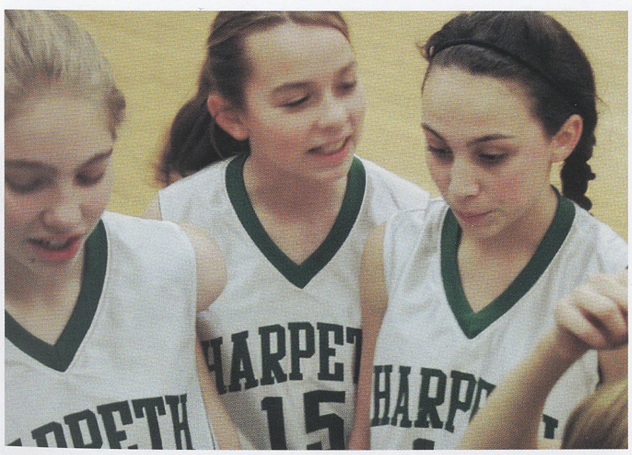

Kat Caire stares down the offense; An intense moment on the bench; Megan Malone pushes it up the court; Ugo Ananaba posts up; Taylor Heinze on the fast break; Karlyse Bailey in good defensive stance; The team is psyched after a time out.

A twisted ankle, a broken growth plate, a concussion, a bruised knee, and a stomach virus... these were the injuries of the basektball team. They played just 2 games together, the first two, as a full team. For many teams this would hamper the group dynamics. Not this group. "The was the closest group of girls I have ever coached in 11 years of coaching" says Coach Ross of her team. How did they get so close? In the spirit of the movie Remember the Titans the girls learned something new about each other each day while stretching in practice. They learned each others middle names, favorite color, restaurant... This closeness flowed onto the court also. Accoring to Coach Ross "these girls were amazing on the court. Perhaps their best games were beating CPA in double overtime and a 2 point loss to GMS in the tournament. They were an amazing and talented group to coach. Other team can only learn from their comradery."

The US basketball team started the season off with a bang, traveling to Phoenix, AZ for the Nike Invitational Tournament of Champions and playing against some of the top teams in the nation. With several seniors graduating last year, there were a lot of holes to fill, and both new ands returning players were able to step it up and fill the positions needed. With four seniors this year, the team had great leadership both on and off the court throughout the season. Several members of the team say they were "like a family" throughout this year's season. The team had many memorable moments, such as funny bus rides, and beating tough opponents, making this an unforgettable season and once again making US proud.

The 8th graders took over the middle school swim team, proving to be great leaders. One of the greatest highlights of the season was the GPS meet. The middle schoolers rode up to Chatanooga with the Highschool and swam all afternoon and night. The trip proved to be well worth the time as both the Highschool and Middle School teams won. One lasting memory was the message that the team left Adam, the coach, after their win against GPS. Amelia Norman described her realtionship with her teammates: "These girls are truly like my sisters and they will be forever. We are just like one big happy family. Through thick and thin, we will always stick together."

Highlights

The Upper School Swimming ended the season winning state for the 6th year in a row. A sophmore, Carolyn Murdock, describes this meet by saying... "My favorite meet this season was definetly state. The minute you walk into the sportsplex you can just feel the energy radiating from the crowded staduim. Everybody runs around with their bodies painted, showing their team spirit. It's so exciting to see the best of the best compete against each other. Seeing the fastest 8 swimmers in the state from each event walk out with music blaring in the background is one of the most enthralling events of my life. You get goose bumps as the sportsplex gets silent when each heat steps onto the block to prove whether they are the best or not."

Highlights

This year the diving team had a big team with lots of depth. Ranging from high school students to middle school students, they helped to pull the Bearacudas through to win another state championship. The only senior this year, Angeline Mariani, helped inspire other fellow teammates by setting a good example. According to Meryl McVicker, the best meet was the Franklin meet because every diver was able to participate. The team was also constantly laughing due to Bradley Moody's impressions of Taylor Witherspoon, or by just laughing together during the car rides.

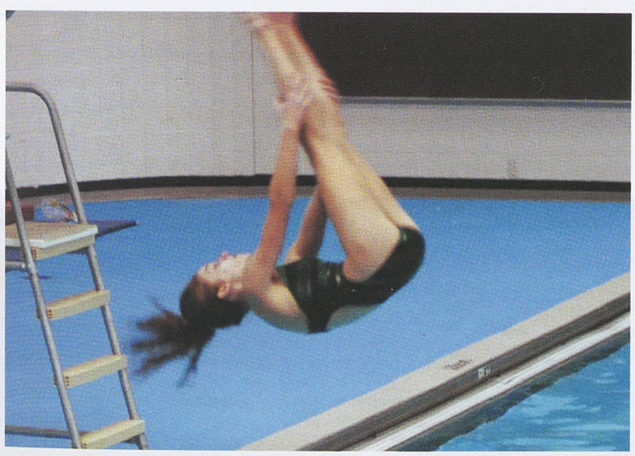

Angeline Mariani casually lifts her hands as she wows the crowd with her excellent back dive. Bradley Moody is in the middle of her approach of her amazing dive. Morgan McVicker flies in mid-air before she plunges into the water. Angeline Mariani, from the back, prepares yet another back dive. Meryl McVicker uses her best intimidating look as she begins a dive. Kathleen Gobbell looks towards her coaches to figure out which dive to do next. Amy Bowers squats in preparation for her last dive.

Highlights

This year was only the third year for the middle school lacrosse team, but it was a successful season with only one loss. Although half the team members were rookies, it looks like the middle school lacrosse team is following in the footsteps of the upper school team. Goalie Ann Randolph stated, "Our team improved throughout the season, and we are excited about next year!" When asked about her favorite memory, Olvia Coble said, "Definately going to SATCO and just goofing off with the team." With tough practices and an unbreakable team bond, its no wonder the Honeybears' season was a dynamite one.

Elizabeth Ragan attempts to stop her opponent.

Highlights

The upper school lacrosse team was able to claim the state championship title for the third year in a row. With leadership from seniors Ellen Regan, Avery Graham, Argie Johnson, Maggie Diehl and Aly McCathern, the Honeybears had only one loss this year. Senior player Avery Graham said that the best memory was "definitely when we won the state championship, but also senior workout day." When asked what the best game of the year, Senior Ellen Regan adds, "The State Final game against Ravenwood where we won 10 to 6 was definitely our best game." Junior Lauren Riegle stated, "We had a great team this year and great leadership. Next year I am sure will be another successful season." With former Lacrosse player, Legare Vest, as coach, the bears are ready to move on and grab another state title next year. After three state championships the bears have not only set the stardard here at school but all across the state.

Nancy Keen Palmer passes the ball. Caroline Tanner grits her teeth as she runs at an opponent. Olivia Burd makes an impressive save. Senior Ellen Regan is congratulated on senior night. Coach Legare Vest proudly watches her team. Avery Graham prepares to catch the ball. Kate Jacques agressively charges a member of the other team.

Highlights

This year the middle school tennis team had a winning season. Led by their coach Stephanie Romary and assistant coach Blair McMeans, the team was once again a force in the HVAC upper division. Because of individaul and doubles success everyone made it to finals of the tournament. Perhaps the best match of the season came against BA in which every girl won her match, singles and doubles. When asked her favorite memory of the season, Mary Lynne Graham stated "singing on the bus the whole way to the Championships - we really felt teamlike...by the end of the season we really felt like a big family." With over half the team returning next season Coach Romary has her eyes set on another HVAC Championship.

Highlights

Like the middle school team, the upper school team finished their season with only one loss, and they ended their season being undefeated in the region. One of the team's great victories was Knoxville Webb, who had not lost to us in 9 years! The team made many great memories riding on the bus to and from their matches. They made it to state, and sisters Lauren and Carolyn Caire placed first in the state in doubles. This year the team was lead by seniors Lauren Caire and Margaret Tipton and included many more freshmen than in years past. Coach K, new to the team this year moving in from New Orleans, a Hurricane Katrina transplant, instilled a very strong team bond in the girls. Coach Armistead Wilson joined the team as an assistant.

Sarah Schutt slams one past her oppponent; Madeleine Byrd is ready to hit it over the net; Margaret Tipton has a nice forehand; Carolyn Caire runs to make a great save; Caitlin Anthony hits the ball perfectly; Annie Tipps looks ready to serve; Maggie Stephenson uses all of her might to hit the ball hard.

Highlights

With a winning record, the softball team had a successful season. According to Michele Martin, the best game for the team was against Freedom Middle because of their win in overtime complete with a homerun hit by Joanna McCall. The team entered the HVAC tournament as a 2nd place seed and finished in the same place in a tight and controversial game aganinst BA. Not only did the team have a strong bond on the field but off the field as well. Justine Brittain described the practices as "fun and crazy," but obviously it paid off. This year proved that the softball team is a force to be reckoned with in years to come.

Joanna McCall looks intimidating in the dugout.

Highlights

There was something different about the softball team this year. It might have been the PA system, the announcer, or the music that made the games seem more exciting, but this year the team was stronger and smarter than ever. Over the past two years, the team has improved both offensively and defensively, scoring more runs this season than the past years. Everyone on the team improved tremendously this season. Seniors Julie French, Denton Whitson, Sarah Norton, Krissie Binkley and Katie Geer led the team, and the senior day game against USN stands out as one of the best games of the season. The team hosted the region tournament but was unable to make it to the state tournament. This was a great year for the softball team, and one that will be remembered by anyone who saw them play..

Sally Anne Harrell slides to safety and the opponents are amazed at her mad skills.

Abigail Atkins fields a tough grounder; Julie French prepares to throw the runner out at first; Sarah Norton catches a perfect strike; Katie Geer prepares to bat; Christina Mishu fields a hard-hit grounder; Sarah Norton prepares to bunt; Ann Francis and Denton Whitson hang out in the dugout.

Middle school track teams beware; the fifth and sixth grade track team this year showed tons of potenial for the years to come. Taylor Heinze continued daily to amaze her teammates as the fastest sprinter, while Maddie D'Aquila was thought of as fast middle distance runner, and Karlyse Bailey was the fastest miler. Taylor's abilities did not stop with spints though, she was the top long jumper with a personal best of 13' 1" and a personal best in high jump of 4'2". Hunter Magee wowed the crowd with her strength as the top shot putter throwing an astouinding 23'. Maddie D'Aquila, Taylor Henize, Sydney Solarek, and Becca Jacques completed the 4x100 relay team. The highlight of the season was the Highland Games. With record low temperatures atop the hill at FRA, the girls endured near snowlike conditions. Mrs. Graves, with her sister assistant Coach Wilder, was very encouraging and kept them going. Practices were on the track with over a hundred other runners including the high school and 7/8 track team. Runners were able to focus on their indivdual skills and passing the baton. The team's good luck "charm" was a variety of lucky bandaids include strawberry shortcake, power rangers, shreck, hello Kitty, and Hot Wheels. And, they also had a lucky baton.

Highlights

The track team had a tough season this year, but they were able to pull together and work together to improve steadily throughout the year. While practices were difficult, Coach Jack Henderson pushed all the girls to do their best and to always strive for improvement. Seventh grader Kate Wiseman thinks that the team really came together for the HVAC championship meet because "everyone did well and all of our hard work showed". The team was able to bond together and grow closer. Carly Rolfe felt that she got to know many seventh graders better because they ran track together. In one of the final meets of the regular season, nine girls recorded lifetime bests in their events. All of the girls felt that they made major improvements throughout the season and they were all glad that the team bonded together and pulled off a third place finish in the HVAC Championships.

Leslie Kimball throws the shotput with a look of fierce intensity.

Amy Bowers races past her opponents; CeCe Christians and Isabel Concepcion cheer on their teammates; Abby Henry prepares to vault; Kendal Herring finishes first; Katherine Dresch and Elizabeth Akin are glad that they beat the other team; Lia Pendleton gets focused to run her best; Krissi Petway and Katherine Dresch display a perfect handoff as practiced many times before.

Highlights

Despite a lack in numbers of returning runners this year, the track team was able to pull out a strong season with new and old faces alike. The team completed their regular season undefeated and entered the post season as favorites for the Nashville Track and Field Championship for the seventh consecutive year. Lauren Leroy, Mary Katherine Bartholomew, Taylor Parish and Dede Nesbit lead the pack as a strong group of seniors, always encouraging the team to work hard throughout the season. Continuing tradition, Senior Workout Day consisted of a trip to Maggie Moos. This was a great way to end the season with its most memorable moment being Coach Thorton stealing Octavia's second icecream. Mrs. Russ gave the team green ribbons to tie on their shoes at the beginning of the season, which the girls are still wearing. These ribbons symbolize the tie between past and present teams and their traditions and accomplishments.

Post Exam Celebration

This year's 2005 Winter Formal on December 16th was a celebration of the end of exams. The student council put on the dance. The music was booming and the dance floor was hopping. Freshmen enjoyed their first year experience while seniors enjoyed the bittersweet experience of going to their last Harpeth Hall Winter Formal. When commenting about Winter Formal Reed Pankey stated, "It was so much fun! It was much better than the previous two years. The music was fantastic, and I loved seeing my friends' dresses." Hopefully, next year's will turn out just as awesome.

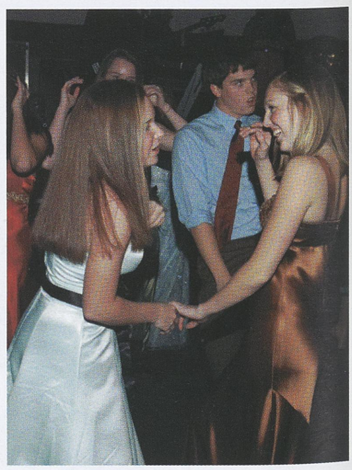

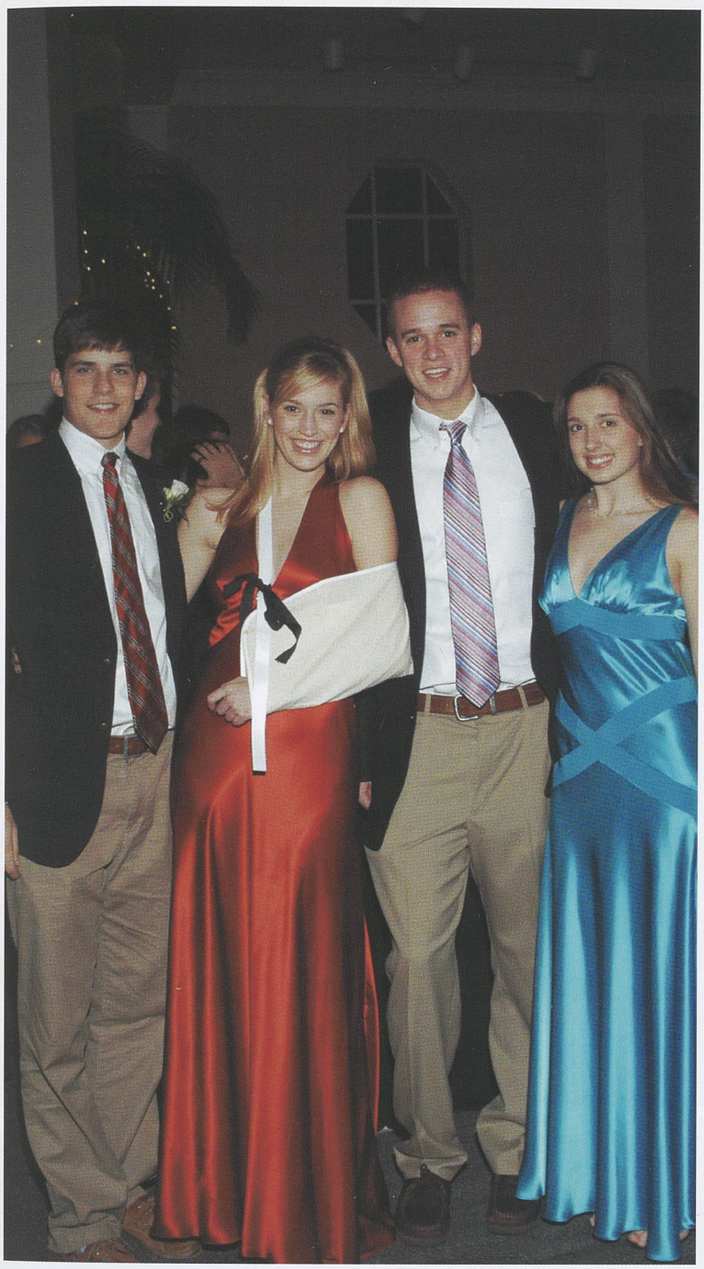

Freshman Jane Marie Brown smiles for her first winter formal experience. Sophmore Emily Manning flashes her pearly whites at her date.

- Liz Gift

The theme for the 2006 Prom was "Bon Voyage." The theme was meant to be a "Farwell" to the seniors as they approach their final days of high school. The decorations included a backdrop of New York City Harbor and a Ball Room for the Presentation background. In the bathroom were the posters on "How to Throw Your Date Overboard." This year's prom queen was senior Ginny Brown. "It was an honor to be selected as Prom Queen this year. The juniors did an amazing job and worked hard for prom. Their hard work paid off. All of the seniors enjoyed their final Prom."

The presenter for this year was Jamie O'Neal, the famous country singer. The band this year was Black Widow. They kept the dance floor alive with their catchy tunes and beats. Junior English Taylor commented, "The band was amazing this year. I hope they come back for our Senior Prom. I can't believe we only have one more prom!" Hopefully, next years will be just as successful!

Each year, the girls, along with their fathers, excitedly board the General Jackson Showboat looking forward to a night on the water. Girls can bring either their father or special friend to accompany them in a night of dancing and fine dining. After boarding at seven, the guests have time to walk around the deck while taking pictures with friends in front of the water and sunset. Girls decked out in their sundresses, dads decked out in their suits, everyone had a marvelous time aboard this unique Nashville attraction. The usual dinner of chicken, vegetables, potatoes and chocolate mousse was served at candlelit tables. Allison Dowdle, a junior exclaims, "The highlight of my night aboard the General Jackson was having my mousse spilled on me!" Table decorations included fish bowls with live fish and vases of flowers.

Father-Daughter Dance

A Night Aboard The General Jackson

After dinner it was time to get the party started with some jazz music and crazy dancing. The band kicked off with an oldies song, and dads showed off their dance moves to the embarassment of their daughters. There was a special song reserved for seniors and their dads as a way to remember their last night aboard the General Jackson. There was a nice breeze outside for the guests to enjoy when they needed a break from the dancing. After an hour or so of dancing to music and chatting it up with old friends, the night came to a close as the showboat pulled into it's dock. Although the night had to come to an end, the memories made will always be remembered by all of the guests who attended.

Lucy Meador, Caroline Kay, Elizabeth Ragan, Grayson Eckert, Grace Anne Sanderson, and Christine Osteen enjoy their first Father-Daughter dance of many to come.

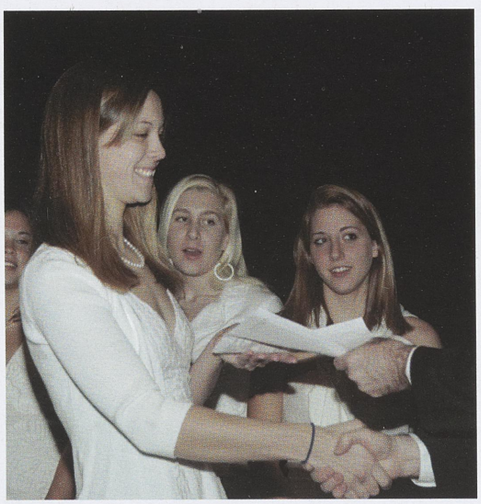

Commanding the dancefloor, Sarah Joy Crouch and her father show off their dance moves.

~Cum Laude~

Each Spring, a handful of juniors and seniors are honored at the Cum Laude Ceremony. Requirements for membership include a high GPA and an evident eagerness for knowledge. Ten juniors and five seniors are inducted annually. The ceremony begins as the girls process down the aisle, dressed in pressed white attire. Processing behind the girls are faculty members who were inducted into Cum Laude at their own Alma Maters. Faculty sponsor, Dr. Echerd plays a large role in organizing the ceremony and congratulating the new members. Monisha Chakravarthy, the society's president, welcomes the guests and gives a little background about Cum Laude's history. Then, vice president Ellen Regan introduces the speaker for the year, Mr. Tuzenu, winner of the 2005 Lulu Hampton Owen Chair for excellence in teaching. After Mr. Tuzenu's insightful speech about the search for truth, the awarding of certificates begins. One by one, the fifteen new members walk to the podium to shake hands with Ms. Teaff and Dr. Echerd and recieve their certificates. Family members sit in the audience, looking on proudly and taking snapshots at every chance. After the singing of the Alma Mater, students are dismissed and the society members and their families are invited to Souby Hall for a reception to conclude this honored event.

Cum Laude President, Monisha Chakravarthy, eloquently adresses the audience about the history and requirements for the society.

Both new and returning members of the society gather together for a group shot after the morning ceremony rehearsal.

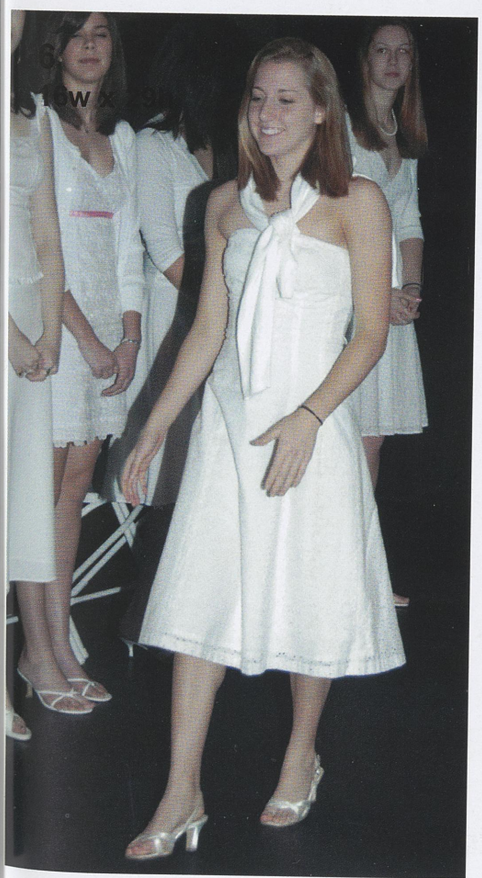

Juniors Emily Thompson, Sophie Sanders, Kaitlin Ray, and Ashley Ramsden stand in their white attire, preparing to sing the Alma Mater.

Members in course, Maggie Diehl and Alex Hoblitzelle, stand to congratulate the new members.

Junior smarties, Cameron Neely, Mary Lindsay Krebs, and Annie Killian, anxiously attempt to avoid eye contact with their family members in the audience.

Senior Angeline Mariani tries hard not to fall in her high heels as she walks to accept her certificate.

Grandmother's Tea

Grandmother's Tea is a long-standing, highly anticipated tradition in the Middle School. Each year the middle school students invite their grandmothers and special friends to join them for a musical concert and a tea party. The guests were greeted with smiling faces and green and white balloons in the Marnie Sheridan Gallery. Friends and family members traveled from all over the country to be here on this special day, and the grandmother who traveled the farthest even received an award! Awards were also given to the oldest guest, the grandmother with the most grandchildren, and the guests who were alumni. After a warm welcome from Ms. Teaff, head of school, an introductory speech was given by an 8th grader in which she shared a few memorable and comic times she has had with her grandmother. Following the speech, there were performances by the middle school chorus, band, orchestra, and dance companies. As always, the guests loved watching the middle schoolers share their talents in singing, dancing, and playing music. Then, after a long round of applause and a thank you from Ms. Teaff, the party moved to the gallery for a time to snack and socialize. Guests sat in circles drinking punch and eating cookies and small sandwiches. New friendships were formed as the middle schoolers introduced their special guests to their friends and other guests. Teachers were even able to take part in the event by socializing with and getting to know the special guests. Students were also given the chance to have a photo-op with their guest posed in front of a green and white banner, a token of remembrance for this special event. This year's Grandmother's Tea provided a way for students to connect with their friends and family, while enjoying music, art, and conversation.

George Washington Day

A Celebration of Our First President

Every year, the seventh grade puts on a performance to celebrate George Washington's birthday and his leadership of our country. They also vote on two members of the eighth grade class to have the honor of being George and Martha Washington. This year, George Washington was played by Carly Rolfe, and Martha was played by Emmy Weikert. The performance includes a display of the soldiers marching skills, a minuet by the ladies and gentlemen, and a jig by the sailors to show their duties at sea. It also includes various songs, sung by everyone, depicting what life was like during the American Revolution. The costumes reflect the time period as well, with beautiful colonial dresses for the ladies and suits for the gentlemen. Although the performance is the same each year, every grade brings their own unique character, whether it is through the way they sing the songs or the way they carry out the dances. The school community looks forward to this celebration each year because it has been a tradition since the establishment of our school.

Awards Day

Middle School Recognition.

Awards day in the Middle School is the final assembly of the year, and for the eighth graders, it is their last assembly in the Middle School. Eighth grade students receive subject awards in science, history, math, English, French, Spanish, Latin, and Fine Arts. Other awards, such as Daugh W. Smith Award, given to an eighth grader who has attended Harpeth Hall since the fifth grade, are presented. The subject awards go to girls who have displayed academic excellence by maintaining the highest average in the given subject throughout the year. The awards are very broad, like the Student Council Award and the Leadership Award. The members of Honor Council and Ambassador Society are announced as well on this very special and memorable day for the Middle School.

Exploring the World

Winterim 2006

Winterim 2006 turned out to be successful yet again. This year for the eleventh and twelth grade a new trip was offered: Australia. Senior Liza Darwin stated, "The trip was really cool! We got to see all different types of cities. For example, Sydney was very modern unlike Caines which was where the Great Barrier Reef was. We got to go snorkeling, which was a unique and a once in a lifetime experience!" With other trips varying from Spain, France, and Ecuador allowed a range of opportunities for traveling juniors and seniors. However, the sophomores and freshmen were able to broaden their horizons on campus with a variety of courses ranging from yoga to gender roles. Students are already looking forward to an even more exciting winterim next year!

Upper School Awards Day

Margaret Walker gives Mr. Wert a big hug after receiving the Math Award.

"Awards Day is a great time to honor the girls who excel in academics, as well as the arts."
-Reed Pankey, Junior

The Upper School Awards Day is the Friday morning before exam week and marks the end of classes. It is the peak of club competitions, and a time of well-deserved recognition. Awards are given by all of the academic departments, the fine arts, as well as the all school awards. However, the traditional announcement of the Lady of the Hall reigns as the greatest honor. The fifth and sixth grade crown bearers, seventh and eighth grade heralds, and freshman through senior representatives earn their titles by being appreciated for their kind hearts and selfless spirits. There are also book awards presented to honor juniors, who not only have survived the perilous year, but have done so with shining colors and great grades to prove it. During the middle of the agenda, club song competition is a humorous pick-me-up, a time for each club to show off their practice routine. This year, the songs were different than other years as only one song was sung per club; however, they looked and sounded a lot better. The seniors lead the school in one of the last rounds of the alma-mater, marking the official beginning of exam week and the anticipation of graduation for the Class of 2006.

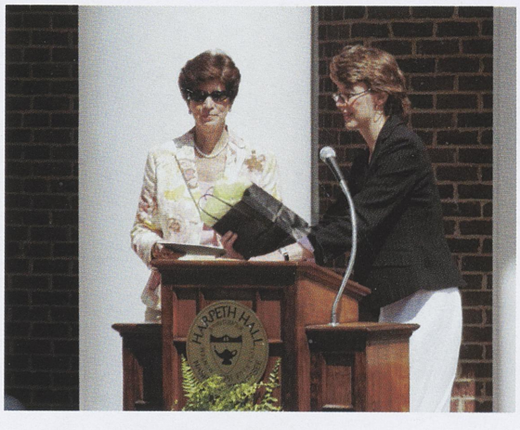

Ellen Regan dances the Angkors to victory in the club song competition.

Bradley Moody dresses up as a gator to support her team, the Aristons.

Mrs. Blackburn presents Whitney Hayden with the Cindy Crist Art Purchase Award.

Ms. Teaff and Mrs. Hill start the morning by presenting the college books to the specially selected juniors.

Molly Proffitt gives Mr. Croker a hug after being presented the Tennessee Williams Screen Writers Award.

Monisha Chakravarthy presents Elta Mariani with the Cum Laude Award.

Lady of the Hall Ellen Regan and good friend Senior Representative Krissie Binkley pose together.

The stylistically and musically talented Kristin Wamp sarends the crowd.

The Seniors sing Lean On Me while below the juniors chose Forever Young as their class song.

Step Singing

Sarah Denson, Emily Hassell and Susan Barcus hold their breathes in preperation for their senior song.

Mr. Joe Croker stole the show with his speech and beautiful rendition of Forever Young.

Celebrating Together

The classes of 2006 and 2007 gather together on Souby lawn to celebrate the passing of the school to from the present seniors to the upcoming class. Even though the weather was questionable, the beautiful ceremony on the evening of May 21, 2006 turned out great. The weather held up and the evening pressed on with Mr. Joe Croker as the keynote speaker selected by the senior class. His speech brought laughter all around the crowd and tears to the seniors' eyes as they looked back on high school. Mr. Croker ended his speech with a song accomplined by the senior class's very own Kristin Wamp. The ceremony continued with the giving of the senior gift, a new projector for the auditorium. The class songs chosen for this year were Lean on Me by the seniors and Forever Young by the juniors. The juniors took the pledge that the seniors took the year before to "leave the school not less but greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to them." The celebration of Lady of the Hall completed the evening by giving the honor to Ellen Regan and her court.

Graduation

We Did It!

By the time graduation rolls around, the halls are eerily quiet and Honeybears are instead enjoying summer by the pool. The seniors, clad in white dresses and bouquets of red roses, stood anxiously in Souby Hall on Monday, May 22nd in anticipation of their commencement from high school. The hundreds of white chairs that covered Souby lawn slowly filled as parents, siblings, aunts, uncles grandparents and friends came to watch the ceremony. The weather for graduation night could not have been more perfect as a cool breeze cooled off the guests and seniors alike. With speeches from head of school, Ann Teaff, head of upper school, Jess Hill, and president of the board of trustees, Susan Simons, the ceremony was beautiful and meaningful to both the seniors and families. Senior Zoé Stein, voted to speak by the seniors, gave an eloquent speech reflecting on the high school careers of the class of '06. When the diplomas were handed out toward the end of graduation, the seniors could finally relax and enjoy the evening. Singing a spirited version of Lean on Me, the college bound group of girls ended graduation on a joyful note.

Kathleen Ambrose, Meg Beasley, Kelsay Best, Elizabeth Bohannon,and Lauren Braden excitidly wait to process.

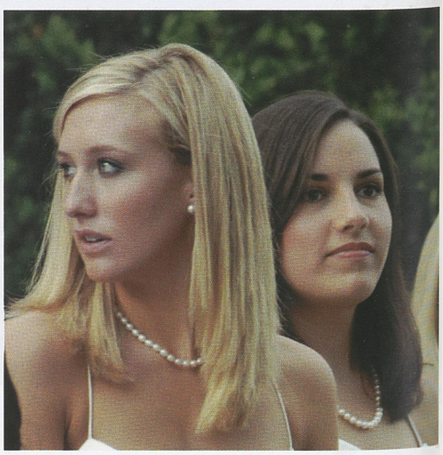

Margaret Walker leads the senors in their class song Lean On Me.

Carsen Maxwell, Angeline Falls Mariani, Tracey Lustig, and Jaclyn Kireyczyk impationly wait to stand and get their diplomas.

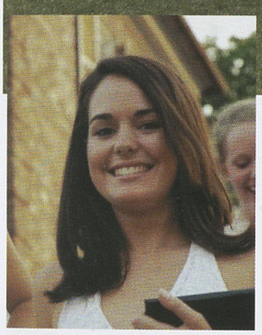

Ms. Teaff congratuates Ellen Regan again on her special honor of Lady of the Hall.

Grace Herbert glances at the girls walking while Emily Hassell attempts to find her family in the massive crowd.

"I thank my God for every time I remember you."

The girl in the box has a beautiful smile.
A smile that stretches for most of a mile.
The girl in the box looks real happy to me.
A look that says, "Hey, I'm happy to be."
But then the girl sees that the box is too small.
A box that's too small to hold one so tall.
So the girl in the box steps out in the world.
A world that has grown and now come unfurled.
The box is discarded. Long since gone away.
The little girl's grown. And found her own way.
With high school behind her, more life yet to live,
The girl becomes a woman, with so much to give.
Now folks in her family became quite amazed
At the things she accomplished, this child they had raised.
They cheer as she moves on to her next life phase,
Shouting and stomping in acts of great praise.
For the girl in the box with the beautiful smile
Has found her own way with a fabulous style.

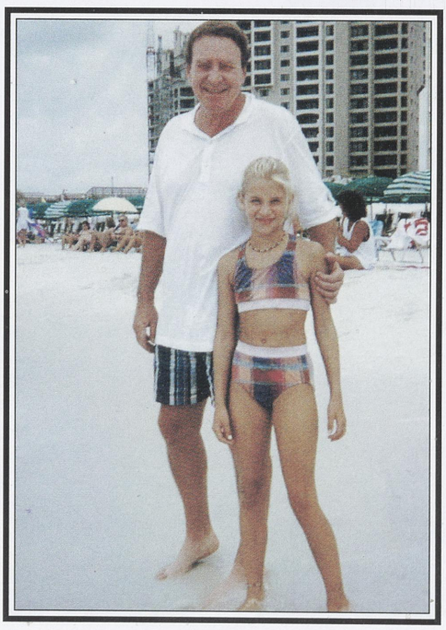

We love you, Anne Clarke.

Sarah walked before she talked. At only nine months she was climbing on the dining room table. In elementary school, her favorite class was "Musmic Glass." Once, at age 2 or 3, at the grocery store, in her mother's arms, she asked an elderly lady with heavy make-up if she was a "clown."
Sarah has always been very independent. While to some she looks the role of the prep, take away the school uniform and you'd get tie-dye. Sarah loves Monteagle and Sewanee, and she loves and knows music.

bird
That cannot fly.
-Langston Hughes

Our dear, precious, beautiful Jillian...we are so proud of you!! Reach out and grab all that God has in store! You are ready. We love you.
Mom, Daddy, Emily and Overton

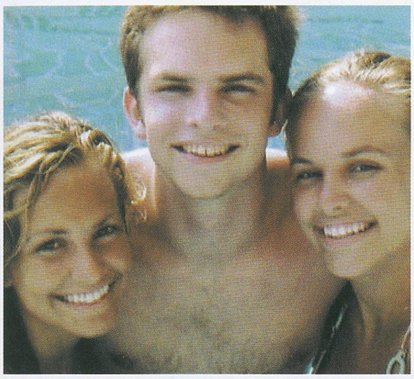

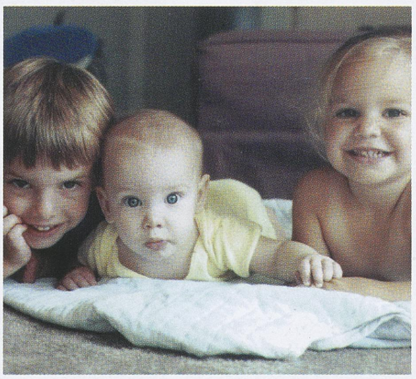

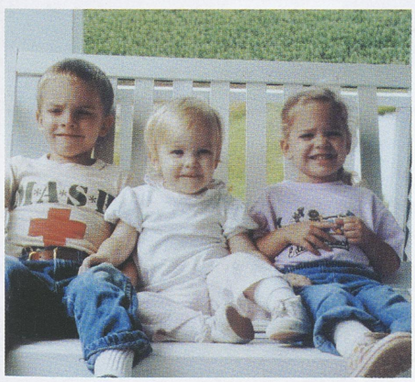

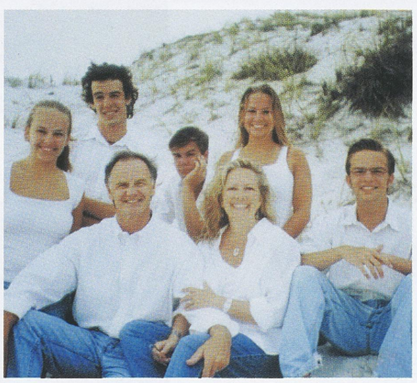

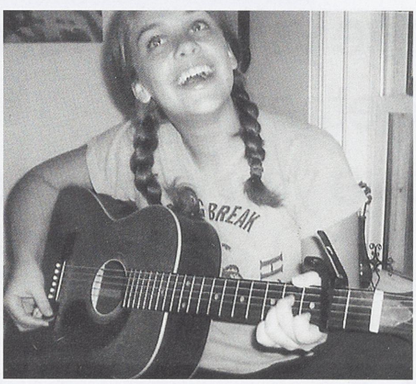

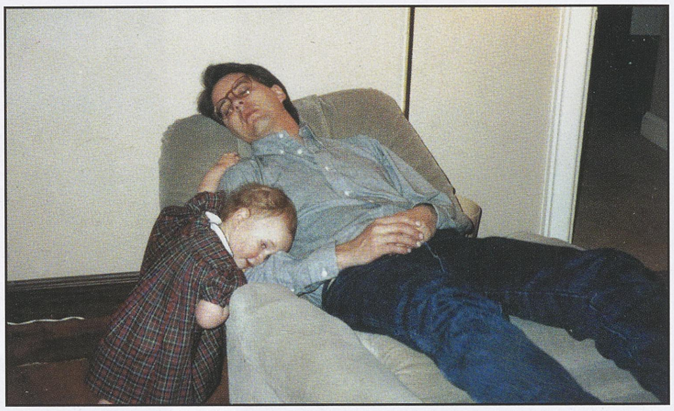

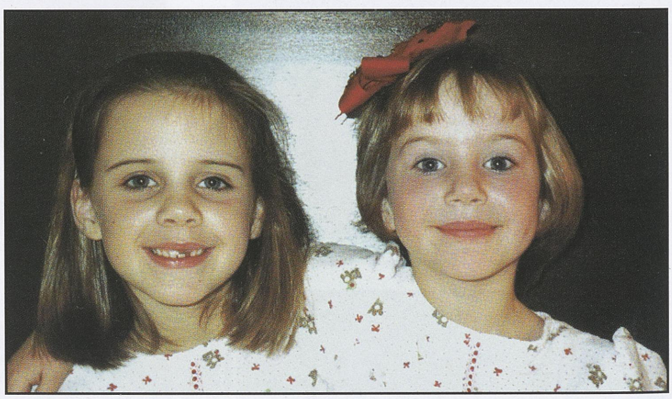

"'For I know the plans that I have for you,' declares the Lord, 'plans for welfare and not for calamity to give you a future and hope.'"

Jeremiah 29:11

"Love you forever and forever
Love you with all our hearts
Love you whenever we're together
Love you when we're apart."
